A

Abstract of Title
A summary of records affecting title to a subject property.

Acceptance
Action of offeree in agreeing to terms of an offer, thereby creating a contract.

Acceleration Clause
A provision in a mortgage or other contact that gives a party (such as a lender) a right to demand immediate payment of an entire principal balance.

Acknowledgment
A certification, usually before a notary, that a document is the act and deed of the declarant.

Adjustable-rate Mortgage (ARM)
A mortgage under which the lender may change the interest rate periodically on the basis of changes in a specified index.

Adjustment Period
The length of time between the adjustment dates for an adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM).

Administrator
“Personal Representative”, the person who is appointed to administer the estate.

Administratrix
“Personal Representative”, the person who is appointed to administer the estate.
Adverse Possession
Control or occupancy of real property under circumstances that indicate that such use is by right on the part of the possessor. Adverse possession may establish title if continued a certain period of time, at common law, twenty years.

Amortization
The gradual repayment of a mortgage loan or other obligation by installments.

Amortization Schedule
A timetable for payment of a mortgage loan. An amortization schedule shows the amount of each payment applied to interest and principal and shows the remaining balance after each payment is made.

Annual Percentage Rate (APR)
The cost of credit expressed as an annual rate. It is defined and calculated by using a formula set by federal law and disclosed to the borrower to aid in comparing different credit plans. All finance charges imposed by a lender are included in this calculation, and an APR is always higher than the simple interest rate when such finance charges such as points, origination fees or mortgage insurance are charged by a lender.

Appraisal
Process of valuing property, or a real estate professional’s estimate of a property’s value.

Assessment
The process of placing a value on property for the purpose of taxation. This term may also refer to a levy against property for a special purpose, such as a sewer assessment.

Assignment
A transfer of contract rights to another; for example, assignment of a mortgage or lease.

Assignment of Mortgage
Because a mortgage is an interest in real estate, the assignment of a mortgage is a conveyance of a legal estate in the mortgaged premises. In an assignment the holder of the mortgage (Assignor) conveys the mortgage to the Assignee. The assignee then holds all rights to the mortgage and becomes the person/entity which can discharge it.

Assumption
Taking on a responsibility, such as where a buyer of real property agrees to assume responsibility for payments on an existing mortgage.

Attachment
A lien or seizure of property created by legal process.
Attorney-in-fact
A person authorized to act on behalf of another, usually by grant of a written power of attorney.

B

Bequest
A gift of personal property by will.

Beneficiary
A person designated to receive the income or other proceeds, as from a trust or estate.

Binder
A preliminary agreement, secured by the payment of an earnest money deposit, under which a buyer offers to purchase real estate.

Bridge Loan
A form of second mortgage that is collateralized by the borrower's present home (which is usually for sale) in a manner that allows the proceeds to be used for closing on another property before the present home is sold.

Broker
An agent who negotiates contracts for purchase and sale. In Massachusetts, real estate brokers and salespersons are licensed by the state Real Estate Board.

C

Capital Gain

Certificate of Title
The current state of a registered land title is noted on both the front and back of the certificate of title.

Citation (Cite)
Reference to legal authority, such a case, statute, regulation or ordinance.

Chain of Title
The history of all of the documents affecting title to a parcel of real property, starting with the earliest existing document and ending with the most recent.
Closing
In a real estate transaction, a meeting in which the deed is delivered to the buyer, payment is made to the seller, title is transferred, and agreed-on costs are paid. Also called "settlement."

Cloud on Title
Any condition which adversely affects a title to real estate.

Commitment
In real property, a lender’s agreement to provide mortgage funding to a borrower.

Condemnation
The determination that a building is not fit for use or is dangerous and must be destroyed; or, the taking of private property eminent domain.

Condo
Condominium with only two units, often a two family house subject to the condominium statute.

Condominium
A form of real estate ownership in which a property is divided into individually-owned units and common areas, the common areas being owned by the unit owners in undivided shares.

Condominium Plans
Recorded land (Registry) condominiums must have floor plans, but not site plans; although the majority of recorded land condominiums do have site plans. Registered land (Land Court) condominiums must have a site plan and floor plans. A condominium site plan shows, among other things, the dimensions of the exterior of the buildings, tied to the lot lines. Floor plans show the layout, location, unit numbers, and dimensions of the units.

Consideration
The price or thing (tangible or otherwise) given in exchange as part of an agreement or contract. For example, in a purchase and sale of real estate, the considerations are the buyer’s money and the seller’s property.

Contingency
A condition that may affect whether a contract is binding. For example, residential purchase and sale agreements often include mortgage commitment or home inspection contingency provisions.

Conventional Mortgage
A mortgage that is not insured or guaranteed by the federal government.
Convertible ARM
An adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM) that can be converted to a fixed-rate mortgage under specified conditions.
